

Beast of Burden

Big, bad, and beautifully designed, the Discovery has a compartment accessible from an external zipper which minimizes stacking so you can rifle through without having to go nuclear and allows you to segregate shoes and wet/dirty/stinky items from the rest of your gear. The bottom third of the bag is ridged hard so it can take all the hits the airlines (and you) throw, punch, push, and kick its way. Heavy duty wheels, ykk zippers, skid bumpers. Yellow rip stop interior lining makes the contents easy to see. When this bag rolls onto the baggage carousel, other travelers will be so awestruck that they may try to claim it as their own. Look at it this way—fending them off is good cross training. MSRP $199.00 mountainsmith.com
